Dear Friends

The Committee appointed by this meeting to visit Eliza Smith, reported that she received them affectionately, and acknowledged the kindness of friends in thus visiting her, but informed them that she thought it best to continue with those she is now associated with. She did not appear prepared to condemn her deviation, and they apprehend that extension of further care, in her case, will not be availing. This meeting was united ^{the same} in judgement, and appointed Mary Allinson and Amelia Smith to communicate this information to Baltimore Monthly Meeting of Women friends.
